Mr. [REDACTED] said that the poster advertising the movie "Seven Days in May" and bearing an entry blank for a contest would be handled by Fox Theatre in Philadelphia as that theatre would show this movie first in Philadelphia.

b6
b7C

He stated he doubts if any other ticket agency would have entry blanks as tickets to this movie.

He stated that CASSIUS CLAY has become a controversial figure due to his association with the Black Muslims. He stated that CLAY as a boxer if controlled would be a "gold mine" for those handling him. He said it appears that CLAY is now out of control of those associated with him and is very unpopular among the white people associated with boxing as well as the general public.

He stated he could furnish no information whatsoever regarding a threat to harm CASSIUS CLAY but stated that CLAY has placed himself into a position where he could be despised by the general public and particularly the Italian element in boxing. He knows of no one who has any particular hatred for CLAY.

Mr. [redacted] advised as follows:

He has been associated with boxing for the past 25 years formerly [redacted]. He said he has been associated in the past with FRANK "BLINKY" PALERMO, FRANK CARBO, JACK NILON, manager of SONNY LISTON, and numerous others. b6 b7c

He stated that CASSIUS CLAY is the most logical man in boxing to continue with the heavy gate receipts and that SONNY LISTON has lost his popularity as far as the gate receipts are concerned. He said that having been advised of a threat to harm CASSIUS CLAY, he felt that such a threat would have been made through a hate group and not anyone associated with boxing in that he could see no purpose being served for anyone associated with boxing to make a threat to harm CASSIUS CLAY. He said that the legal aspect of CLAY's fight with LISTON and the present financial troubles of LISTON bring into the picture a great number of questionable individuals who are fighting for cuts of the money from both CLAY and LISTON; however, it is impossible for him to see any connection to the instant threat.

He said he could see no profit for any individual connected with boxing in harming CLAY. He pointed out that CLAY in his latest publicity in joining a hate group has made himself unpopular in the eyes of the general public. He also said there are a number of people who undoubtedly lost money on the LISTON vs. CLAY fight and would not like the world's champion to be a member of the Black Muslims and may write such a letter during their anger based on the recent publicity. He said he has heard no comments concerning anyone who may have made such a threat.

CASSIUS CLAY is a very controversial figure in national sports and was even prior to winning the heavy-weight title. GIARDELLO, present middleweight champion, is a very popular individual in South Philadelphia among the Italian element, but is generally considered "as despised by both white and colored." TAYLOR pointed out that CLAY, since he has joined the Black Muslims, has undoubtedly created a controversy in the minds of the public and undoubtedly has made numerous enemies; however, nothing is known to him which would have any bearing on a threat against CLAY's life.

He pointed out that he could see no person associated with the boxing game who would have reason to threaten CLAY or who could profit by harming CLAY. He said that a threat such as that made against CLAY would undoubtedly have come from some "crackpot" and should he receive such a threat it would worry him very little. TAYLOR said that he could furnish absolutely no suspect or could think of no individual or group of individuals who would have reason to make such a threat.

He pointed out in view of the fact that FRANKIE CARBO's name was mentioned it could possibly be someone associated with LISTON or the old boxing racket leaders; however, he could find no reason to his knowledge.

Mr. ARNOLD GIVONETTI, manager of personal affairs of JOEY GIARDELLO, advised that he has been associated with boxing in Philadelphia for the past 12 years and is familiar with most boxers and their associates. He said that he has very little to do with the colored element of boxing on a social basis and only on a limited basis in the actual boxing game. He said he knows of no one who could profit by harming or threatening CLAY and that nothing has come to his attention which would in any way reflect a possible suspect in this threat.

He pointed out that CLAY is a very controversial figure not only in the boxing profession but also from a religious and racial standpoint.

He said the threat made would indicate to him that it would be a crackpot and if the same was made concerning him he would not consider it a threat, but someone possibly angry over the loss of a bet.

He said that he knows of no GIARDELLO fans who would in any way have any complaints against CLAY and could furnish no information of value in this investigation.

He said he works in [] corner and handles his physical training seven days a week. He is paid by [] on a gate percentage basis. He attends many fights other than those in which [] participates.

b6

RITACO said that he has little or no knowledge of CLAY's personal life and in view of the fact he has not been associated with a colored fighter in recent years he has little or no associations with the colored element in the fight game. He said he has been with [] for the past 12 years. He said that he has heard nothing which would indicate that there are any individuals in the Philadelphia boxing group who would have any reason to threaten or harm CASSIUS CLAY. He said that from such a threat as has been received he undoubtedly would consider it as a result of a lost bet or possibly the adverse publicity concerning the fight with LISTON and even more so the recent publicity in which CLAY has described himself as a Black Muslim. He said that should he receive such a threat he would feel that it came from some crackpot and certainly would not worry over such a threat.

b6

He also pointed out that some of the men previously associated with Philadelphia boxing may be capable of carrying out such a threat, but feels that should they intend to harm anyone they would not write him about it first.

the name of JOEY GIARDELLO and is presently the world's champion of his class. He said he is no longer managed by handles his own affairs. He said that his personal affairs

b6

TIELELLI stated that he considers himself more popular among the colored element in Philadelphia than most white fighters and that he has no known enemies among the colored or white. He said he has met CLAY on one or two occasions and outside of newspaper publicity knows very little about him. He said that CLAY does not spend much time in Philadelphia, being owned by businessmen in Louisville, Ky. He said he has heard no unfavorable comments about CLAY; however, it is common knowledge that

He said that neither he nor his staff have any information either favorable or unfavorable concerning CLAY's standing in this city and could see no reason why anyone would care to harm him or threaten him. He said that such a threat could come from any of millions of fans who believed LISTON to be the fighter he was advertised to be. He said it was his opinion that LISTON was not in condition to fight, being overweight and sluggish at the time he fought CLAY. He said that it is also possible that the person making the threat could have been a sore loser on a bet and this could include millions of people. He said he could furnish no information whatsoever which would possibly reflect a suspect in the threats on CLAY's life.

The 3,000 blanks furnished to the Fox Theater were placed in a rack in the lobby of the theater on March 4, 1964, backed by a large billboard type display explaining the contest. On March 9, 1964, facts concerning letter #1 were discussed with Assistant U. S. Attorney [redacted] Eastern District of Pennsylvania, at which time he advised that although the contents of the letter appear to fall within the purview of Title 18, Section 876, U. S. Code, he would defer prosecutive opinion until examination of instant letter was completed by the FBI Laboratory. b6 b7c

On March 19, 1964, facts concerning letter #2, as well as the FBI examination of letter #1, were presented to Mr. [redacted] at which time he stated that both letters appear to violate Section 876, Title 18, U. S. Code, and requested logical investigation be conducted. b6 b7c

On March 26, 1964, the contents of letter #3, directed to General LEWIS B. HERSHEY were discussed with Mr. [redacted] at which time he was advised the FBI Laboratory did not associate the handwriting on this letter with that of the previous two letters. b6 b7c

Mr. [redacted] stated that this letter only "implies" a threat. The wording therein indicates similar thoughts and he requested this letter be coordinated with the pending investigation of letters #s 1 and 2. b6 b7c

He said that in view of the lack of logical reasoning, he would further consider prosecutive opinion upon receipt of the full report of present investigation.
